This paper tells the story of an experienced teacher who was inexperienced as a researcher, and of her first piece of educational research. It is also the story of another teacher, experienced as a researcher, who acted for the first time as a research mentor. The story, then, is one of two kinds of becoming.